

NASK

Network of Asian Students at Koç University

Inaugural Meeting

The Network of Asian Students at Koc University (NASK) had its inaugural meeting on the November 23rd 2017. Celebrating the diversity at Koç University, NASK will serve as a platform to unify Asian students, studying at different departments and hailing from different countries. The network will allow students to interact with peers having both similar and diverse ethnicities from nearby and distant neighbors. Such a specialized joint platform would provide opportunity for better idea mobility and exchange of cultural, political and economic intellect at KU.

The meeting hosted a diverse pool of students from different Asian nations such as India, Japan, Pakistan, Singapore and Taiwan. The passionate students aim to share their cultures and experiences with the student and academic body at Koc. With this motivation NASK is working on series of projects with the KUASIA Research Center, aiming to propagate the vision of intellectual knowledge provision on Asian countries.

Stay tuned for updates.
